The address of Rev. Robert N. Simpson to the Oddfellows and their friends Sunday evening was pronounced by many as a classic. The subject "The Arrow Beyond," based on the story of David and Jonathan, was handled most effectively, eloquently.—Harrodsburg Leader.

Will Build Houses

Houses will now grow over night. Last week a building and loan office was established in this city, with the following honorable gentlemen at the head: John W. Crooke, President, assisted by the following able directorate: G. W. Pickels, R. R. Burnam, M. C. Kellogg, R. J. McKee, George D. Simmons, and T. K. Hamilton. H. B. Cosby will hold the purse strings, as he is the secretary and treasurer. Judge J. J. Greenleaf will be attorney for the company and will keep it free from legal entanglement. It is a fine collection of gentlemen and the company should do a "land office business." Here's wishing it success. Richmond, for some strange reason, has never encouraged business enterprises to any great extent. It lets them "root little pig or die." They usually die. May this enterprise have easy sailing.

Smith of Lexington, who first filled the Alexander Campbell Hopkins Chair of Bible school Pedagogy in the College of the Bible, has accepted a call to the Bible-school field work in Ontario under the direction of the National Bible-school Committee of the American Christian Missionary Society. Brother Smith will be an inspiration to the schools of this province, and we wish him every success.

The Christian Sunday School at Mt. Sterling observed "Old Folks Day" last Sunday with fitting ceremonies. A special committee was appointed to see that carriages were provided that all of the old people could be present.

This is a beautiful plan and one that could be followed by all of the neighboring towns for surely those grown old in the service, across whose lines the shadows are lengthening, are worthy of this tribute of love and respect.

Accident to Children of Mr. George DeJarnett

The two little children of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. DeJarnett came near meeting with a very serious accident while lighting powder from a big fire cracker. The children were leaning over the powder when the explosion occurred, burning the side of one little fellow's face and the hand of the other. The many friends of the family are sorry to know of the accident, but glad it was no worse.

Death of Mr. Graff

Mr. C. F. Graff, the venerable father of Mrs. J. G. Crabbe, died on Thursday night at the home on Lancaster Ave.

He had been in ill health for some time, but had only been confined to his bed a few days when the summons came.

Mr. Graff came to Richmond in December and while his failing health and advanced years prevented his making many new acquaintances, those who were fortunate enough to know him, will long remember his kindly, gentle spirit and christian character.

He was a man of much refinement, being a great lover of flowers and also a musician, having written several beautiful hymns.

His life was one of service, he had passed his three score years and ten, and it is meet that he should rest from his labors and enter into his reward.

The funeral was held at the house on Friday afternoon at four o'clock and was conducted by Dr. G. W. Crutchfield assisted by Dr. D. H. Scanlon.

On Saturday morning the remains were taken to his old home in Delaware, Ohio for burial which took place from St. Paul's Methodist Church of which he was a devout member.

Besides Mrs. J. G. Crabbe of this city, Mr. Graff is survived by two sons to all of whom we extend our sincere sympathy.

Union Service at the Baptist Church

The introductory service to the ministry of Rev. Dr. Quisenberry at the Baptist church Sunday evening was of more than usual interest. The occasion was in the nature of a welcome to the new pastor. The congregation was large, and many were unable to gain admission. After an earnest and able discourse by Dr. Quisenberry, Dr. Scanlon congratulated the Baptists upon the noble history to which they had fallen heir and in well chosen words admitted Dr. Quisenberry to the fellowship of all the churches of Richmond. He was followed by Rev. E. B. Barnes who hoped that the success of the new pastor and the Baptist church would be a spur to the greater success of all.

The humorist of the evening was Rev. G. W. Crutchfield who came primed for the occasion, and waxed eloquent in his congratulations. He rose to the occasion and made a speech long to be remembered.

We believe he is headed for the office of Presiding Elder.

The entire service was very enjoyable and we hope will be but an index to many that may be held in days to come. The relations between our churches are very cordial and we trust they may continue. A pleasing duet was a feature of the program sung by Mrs. Carlisle and Miss Mary Traynor.

Newell Dwight Hillis

Dr. Newell Dwight Hillis, the distinguished lecturer, author and preacher, was heard on Wednesday evening in the auditorium of the Eastern State Normal and was greeted by a delighted audience.

Seldom has it been our privilege to hear a more brilliant, or forcible speaker, or one who so happily combined convincing logic with sparkling humor.

The subject for the evening, "The America of To-day and To-morrow," was sketched by the hand of a master and as you saw unveiled before you the picture of the future of our nation, of its wonderful resources, its magnificent possibilities, you felt your heart throb with patriotism and were made to feel the majestic figure immortalized in Campbell's "Last Man," the lone survivor of all the nations of the earth; was the "America of to-morrow."
